

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

An impressive tribute was paid Sunday by citizens representative of all of Windham county and many other parts of the state, to the memory and personality of Deputy State Automobile Inspector Ralph C. Young, whose death is mourned by his relatives and thousands of friends in all parts of the state.

At the funeral services held at his home at 38 Mechanic street, at one o'clock Sunday afternoon, were gathered representatives of the state, county town and borough governments; representatives of the professional, manufacturing and business interests of Killingly and surrounding towns; large delegations from the fraternal organizations with which he was affiliated and many without other affiliation than deep and sincere friendship for one who will be remembered through the years for his kindness, for his great-heartedness, for his sunny disposition and all of the other characteristics that won and held fast for him throughout his life genuine friendship and esteem.

Rev. Walter B. Williams, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church, conducted the service. Gathered on the lawn about the home were representatives of the professional, manufacturing and business interests of Killingly and surrounding towns; large delegations from the fraternal organizations with which he was affiliated and many without other affiliation than deep and sincere friendship for one who will be remembered through the years for his kindness, for his great-heartedness, for his sunny disposition and all of the other characteristics that won and held fast for him throughout his life genuine friendship and esteem.

Rev. Mr. Williams addressed his remarks from the porch of the Young home to the hundreds who were gathered on the grounds. Burial was in South Killingly cemetery, where the Masonic ritualistic burial service was conducted by Master Roland H. Gray and Chaplain Ray W. B. Williams of Colubian lodge. The bearers, members of Colubian lodge, were: Mr. J. L. Darnie, Judge Edwin S. Russell, Charles S. Francis, Albert S. Platts, William M. Franklin and P. E. Fitzgerald. The funeral home was magnificent, an expression of love from relatives, fraternal organizations, the state automobile department, police departments, men in official life, clubs and close personal friends.

A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements. One of the safe-breakers who is being held at Brooklyn jail has been definitely identified as Charles Somers, otherwise "Boston Blackie," whose speciality for years has been burglary and theft from houses.

Through letters sent out by Prosecutor Attorney A. G. Bill in an effort to establish the real identity of the man who blew open the safe at the store of Andrew Jarowski on a Saturday night a few weeks ago information relative to Somers was obtained from Bridgeport police department.

The Bridgeport police "gallery" furnished two excellent photographs of Somers, who gave his name when he was arrested here as John Ryan. Somers was arrested in Bridgeport in 1913 for house breaking and was sentenced to serve a year in jail. At that time he was 44 years of age. His record shows that he is a native of Jacksonville, Fla. Measurements furnished by the Bridgeport police tally exactly with that of the man held at the jail in Brooklyn, as do other aids to checking him up—such as an amputated finger and peculiarly marked ear.

An automobile cortege from Windham arrived here Saturday for the burial of Mrs. Emma LeClair, widow of Dr. C. J. LeClair, a high man of repute who was slain in Woonsocket. Prior to burial here there was a brief service at St. James church where many Danielson people were in attendance. Burial was in the LeClair family lot in St. James cemetery. Mrs. LeClair formerly was a resident of Danielson.

Edward Nash, accidentally wounded in the leg Sunday afternoon, was taken to the hospital.

PUTNAM

At the week end the Putnam police were interested in learning what became of two young women who made a cleanup at the Woodstock fair—selling ribbons or tickets on the representation that the funds obtained were going to the aid of the Putnam Girls' club or the Library fund. Many fell for the swindle and the young women had made their cleanup and left before anyone sensed that they reported here Saturday afternoon that they left the fairgrounds in a car bearing a Massachusetts number.

Many members of Putnam lodge of Elks attended the funeral of Ralph C. Young, automobile inspector, at Danielson, Sunday afternoon. There was a beautiful floral piece from the lodge. Another handsome pillow of flowers was sent by members of the Putnam Police department, which was represented at the funeral.

Scores of new voters, men and women, will participate in today's town election. In the town hall at 8 o'clock this morning. While there has been little outward interest in the general result of the balloting there are one or two contests in sight. More voters likely will be cast in town today, owing to the large number of women voters participating, than in any previous election in Killingly.

Charles Blake of Brooklyn, who was unanimously nominated at Saturday's convention as candidate for senator in the 29th senatorial district is one of the neighboring towns well known citizens and also is widely known in Killingly and other nearby towns. As the 49th district nearly always returns a republican majority, Mr. Blake's election seems foreseen. He never has been a member of the legislature and in case of victory at the polls will begin his legislative service in the upper house.

East Killingly people were again out from police service Sunday as the result of the suspension of operation of the Providence and Danielson line by both the Rhode Island company and the Connecticut company on Saturday evening.

The Rhode Island company since the sale of the P. and D. road to D. P. Sherman has been operating cars from Providence to East Killingly. Mr. Sherman guaranteeing the recovery against loss, while between Danielson and East Killingly service has been maintained by the Connecticut company.

The last car from this end left Danielson Saturday evening at 8:25. When service will be resumed, if ever, could not be learned on Sunday.

From reports received here, Mr. Ross was coming down a hill and did not hear the train approaching until the forward part of the truck was on the crossing. He tried to turn out to run along beside the tracks, but the front part of the truck was struck by the locomotive and badly damaged. The locomotive was also damaged. The crossing had been out of commission for several days according to reports.

BOY BURNS BREWSTER BARN.

CAUSING LOSS OF OVER $5,000
An incendiary fire Friday evening caused a loss to Simon Brewster of his big barn, silo, 160-acre shed, one hundred tons of hay, manure spreader, engine, blower, hayloft, creamer, milking machine, a corn planter, tractor, gun and other farming equipment, besides 27 bushels of potatoes.

Henry Bennett, a half-witted man employed by William E. Hiscow, had written threatening letters, which caused Postmaster Finn to have him taken in custody. He was brought to Jewett City police quarters, but denied committing any crime. He was released after he took him in hand, however, he confessed the whole affair. He said he had nothing against any of the family, but he felt he was being mistreated and tell why he set the fire, he said he had written letters and put them in the mailbox, and received no answers, and was beaten by the Brewsters and removed the letters. This letter writing of a threatening, vile nature has been a mania, and he has already served six months' time for it, the postal authorities being responsible for his arrest.

He said he came up to the mail box and saw straw sticking through the shed, and thought he would set it afire. One match failed to start a fire, so he used a second. When the fire began to burn he was sorry and tried to put it out but it was too late. He seemingly was quite indifferent to the enormity of the crime.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster were alone and did not know there was a fire until called by a neighbor where it was. Mrs. Brewster failed to get any response from the telephone office, and must be some trouble on the line, could not find her husband and started for Mrs. Frink's. The fright and haste brought on a serious attack of edema of the throat, and she was taken to the hospital where she would not live. Sunday she was much better but did not leave her bed. The Jewett City Fire Co. carried the fire, and a physician was called over in automobiles and kept the house wet, doing all they could to help, where there are no fighting facilities. Mr. Brewster was very appreciative of their work, also for the help offered and given by any number of neighbors and people from the borough.

The barn was 90 feet by 40, and contained $5,000 worth of hay and $2,500 worth of machinery. He estimates the loss at $15,000 with $10,000 insurance. The farm is about two miles from the borough.

The fire started about 8 o'clock and when Officer Polan ran down Main street, calling for automobiles and men to go, in the shortest time possible, the street was alive with speeding machines filled with well-to-do citizens, who might have been another tragedy, for two young men rushed into the barn to try to save something and would not have been able to find their way out had it not been that Simon Brewster, Jr., found them and guided them back. The hay was ablaze directly, and they were not familiar with the barn. The young man seemed to forget his own loss in his thankfulness that the boys were not trapped in the barn.
